

Report of the Easter European sub regional Association of the Schools of Social Work

June 26, 2018

- During whole year of 2018 the members of the South East Women's Academic Initiative in Social Work were engaged with the writing for the special issue of the Social Work and Human Rights Journal on migration and anti-migrants sentiments in the region. Guest editors: Darja Zaviršek and Julia Watkins. The special issue is expected to be out in September 2018. We have contributions from the social work academics from Croatia, Serbia, Macedonia, Kosovo, Albania, Bulgaria, Greece and Slovenia.

2.) Promoting IASSW and the global discussion on the SW Ethical Principles in the region:

- Darja addressed the National University of Kyiv-Mohyla Academy Conference on 'Educational programs for social workers: theoretical and practice issues' (February 6, 2018); Darja discussed the Ethical Principles and asked the Kiev colleagues to send the feedback their feedback; see the whole programme attached; the main organisers were Prof Natalia Gusak, dean and dr Oksana Byoko, senior lecturer.
- Darja addressed the national conference of social "All the country standing for social work!", initiated by National College of Social Workers from Romania. The main organiser was Prof dr. Felicia Androni from the University of Petrosani (February 15, 2018).
- Darja addressed the national conference in Georgia, Tbilisi State University organised by Georgian Association of Social Workers and department of social work (organised by : dr Nino Shatberashvili, senior lecturer); (March 27, 2018). See also the celebration of the World Social Work Day 2018 in Georgia: https://youtu.be/EUBU9Af0k\_o

3.) The web site has been updated, posting important events and documents. The members of the EESrASSW have the chance to post their published or unpublished articles or research in the web site. The web site is a resource base for the region. <http://www.eesrassw.net/> (contact: Gašper Krstulović).

Attachments for wider interest:

- A conf programme for your interest;
- an article on the doctoral programme in Kiev;

Sincerely,

Darja Zaviršek, president

